TEXTILE SCHOLARSHIP REQUIREMENTS & AGREEMENT

All students who receive scholarships from the Department of Textile Engineering must meet the following requirements. Any student who does not fulfill the requirements is subject to cancellation of the scholarship, effective the semester eligibility is lost. (The scholarship can be canceled retroactively.)

1. Student must declare a textile major: Textile Engineering, Textile Chemistry, or Textile Management and Technology. Double majors are an option which requires coordination of courses with the two departments.
  2. Student agrees to a time commitment of at least three semesters and agrees to complete at least the first fiber class (TXEN 2100 or TXTN 2110) or repay the scholarship. This allows time for you to make an informed decision about your college major.
  3. Student agrees to inform the department (department head or textile coordinator) of any change in status that would affect eligibility for the scholarship. Loss of eligibility will result in cancellation of the scholarship effective immediately and may require repayment of scholarship funds (see requirement # 2.) For example, student has a textile schedule approved, decides to change major to business and register for business classes the following semester, but does not notify the textile department. The textile scholarship will be forfeited immediately and student will be billed for the amount of the scholarship retroactively if he or she does not notify the textile department of the change in status.
  4. Student agrees to make satisfactory progress toward a textile degree. This involves several responsibilities:
    - a. Following procedure for registration outlined in the textile student handbook. The completed class registration form (in the rack outside Room 115) must be approved by the departmental advisor (the scholarship coordinator) and your faculty advisor, then turned in to the staff in Room 115.
- The Registrar's Office places holds on registration each semester until you are advised in our department (Room 116A.) The advisor notifies students of important information (curriculum changes, intern opportunities, etc.) and tries to spot potential problems with your schedule (for example, if you delay organic chemistry too long, you will not be able to take the fibers class on schedule.) If your schedule is not blocked, that does not negate your obligation to come for advising each quarter. The advisor/scholarship coordinator may place a hold on the scholarship award if a student does not come for advising.

b. Taking all textile classes (and their pre-requisites) when indicated on the curriculum.
Most textile classes are offered only one semester per year, and delaying a single class may put you a year behind. In class scheduling, your priorities must be:

1. Textile classes
2. Math classes
3. Chemistry classes
4. Physics classes
5. Engineering classes
6. Core and electives

University core curriculum classes can be scheduled around major classes and in summer at a junior college. While core curriculum is flexible, major courses and engineering requirements are not. Delaying them can delay your graduation! You can notify the coordinator of math, science, or major course changes (not necessary for core courses) in person or by phone, message, e-mail, etc. Communication is very important. If you have a problem scheduling classes, contact the scholarship coordinator for help early in your registration period; do not wait until classes begin.

5. Student understands that he/she must meet the minimum GPA requirement for renewable scholarships. Different scholarships have different GPA requirements. New students have two semesters to establish the GPA. If the cumulative GPA is below the minimum at the end of the second semester, the student goes on "scholarship probation." The student will receive the scholarship one more semester and must

(1) complete a full-time load of approved courses (see coordinator), and

(2) make a 2.5 or 3.0 semester GPA (depending on the scholarship) to receive the award the next term. If either requirement is not met, the scholarship is canceled. The student stays on a semester-to-semester basis until the cumulative GPA meets the minimum.

6. Student understands that the College of Engineering offers free, private tutoring in Ramsay 104 (Engineering Student Services) and understands that the program is to prevent failing grades, not for "last minute" tutoring. Those services are available elsewhere (check your textile department student handbook or contact advisor.)

Please signify your understanding and acceptance of the textile scholarship requirements by signing and returning one copy to Julia Freeman, 115 Textile Building, Auburn University, AL 36849-5327. Keep one copy for your records. Please contact us at 334.844.5457 or juliaf@eng.auburn.edu with any questions.

I understand and agree to abide by the textile scholarship requirements.
